Brazilian buyers warm up to Indian handicrafts
House & Gift; Sao Paulo, Brazil; 16th-19th August, 2014

House & Gift Fair is the largest professional trade fair for homeware and decoration in Latin America. It is divided into six specialized sectors and two spaces, bringing together the entire supply chain of the segment in four days, attracting qualified buyers from all Brazilian states and 51 countries, which enables networking, tightening the bonds, and promote business. More than 1,300 exhibitors attend the trade fair, including manufacturers, importers and distributors that present fashion, news and trends. The volume Hall opened on 15th August 2014 for volume buyers.

EPCH led India’s participation to this fair with a total of 10 member exporters and five master crafts persons. A vibrant display of handicraft products was organized in the India Pavilion. As per feedback, the participants have received good number of business visitors/enquiries. The Council coordinated live demonstration of the master crafts persons during the show. This attracted lot of visitors to the India Pavilion.

Ms. Abhilasha Joshi, Consul General of India to Brazil along with senior officials of the Consulate of India, inaugurated the EPCH India Pavilion and visited the participants as well as the EPCH publicity booth, set-up for generic promotion & publicity of IHGF Delhi Fair.

The IHGF Delhi Fair (Autumn’2014) leaflets & brochures along with the specially designed brochures in Portuguese language were distributed to the visitors. The brochures and other literature were also placed in the press lounge and at EPCH publicity booth. EPCH’s product catalogues were also displayed at the booth and business visitors very much appreciated them. Besides, one to one interaction was also made in all the Halls with the concerned exhibitors in the show to inform them about IHGF Delhi Fair and invite them to visit the fair. It was learnt that most of the international exhibitors at this fair are sourcing their merchandise from India. The Council’s official also visited the Textil House Fair, being held simultaneously at the venue called Anhembi-Pavilhao Oeste-Sao Paulo-Brazil and invited the exhibitors as well as visitors to IHGF Delhi Fair Autumn 2014.

According to a recent study by Euromonitor, Brazilian consumers, long known for being spenders and not savers, have been exhibiting strong buying trends. Despite a lack of confidence and general dissatisfaction with the government, many poorer Brazilians have been able to take advantage of new assistance programmes to purchase appliances and other big-ticket items for the first time. Among top five consumer trends are inclination towards sustainability; increased international influence on consumption habits; popularity of social media and the internet and focus on technology; growing dissatisfaction with government investment in society; and growing middle class resulting in increased consumption levels.
